S. revenue steamer Richard Rush, has given us the following memoranda, which he obtained from Captain Applegate, who has been many years in Alaskan waters, and whose vessel was, at the time of the eruption, anchored in the harbor of Ivanof. On Saturday, August 27, 1892, the schooner Everett Hays, engaged in hunting in the vicinity of the Shumagin Islands, entered Ivanof Harbor, on the southwestern extremity of the Alaska Peninsula, and only 25 miles southwestwardly from the volcano. Capt. J. S. Applegate, the owner, was on board, and states: About 10 oclock Saturday night, the weather being calm and clear, a low, rumbling, intermittent sound was heard, and caused the crew to come on deck to ascertain the cause. There was no surf, and the cause was unknown. Between 11 and 12 oclock, a dark cloud was observed in the sky, towards the northeast, and about 2 oclock, A. M. , this cloud had increased in volume and height until it covered the greater part of the northeast heavens. The low, rumbling noise had become a continuous roar, like the blast from a great furnace, and by 3 oclock lurid flames could be seen amidst the smoke, which was now rising high in tremendous volumes from a single point, being by compass about northeast. . The vast column of smoke reached an estimated height of two miles, and then expanded like a great spreading oak. From the lower edge of...
