Excerpt: . . . 15 tion is to shield non-network owned and operated affiliates from li-ability in situations where they have no reasonable opportunity to review scripted or recorded programming, or no reasonable basis to believe live or unscripted programming will contain obscene, indecent, or profane material. The Committee expects that the Commis-sion will develop a complete record and define the term network organization to effectuate that intent. The Committee made the distinction between network owned-and-operated station licensees (O and O) and non-network O and O sta-tion licensees because of the unique relationship between the net-work and the O and O. The O and O licensee is part of the networks cor-porate family; therefore any forfeiture penalty from an obscene, in-decent, or profane broadcast by an O and O would run to the corporate parent. In light of this relationship, it is not unreasonable to expect that O and Os could receive special or favorable treatment as com-pared to...
