Excerpt: . two Dutchmen on board. These, and many other particular circumstances, might have made it evident to the understanding of any commander, whose hands we might fall into, that we were no pirates. But fear, that blind, tormenting passion r worked another way, and threw us into the vapours; it bewildered OHr understandings, and set the imagination at work, to form a thousand terrible things, - that perhaps, might never happen. We first supposed, as indeed every body had related to us, that the seamen, on board the English and Dutch ships, but especially the Dutch, were so enraged at the name of a pirate, and especially at our beating off their boats, and escaping, that they would not give themselves time to enquire whether we -were pirates or no, but would execute us off hand, as we call it, without giving us any...
